Description

If all those mindfulness adult colouring books make you want to scream, then fight back and take up your pencils for some anger management with Twisted Colouring. Like previous titles Twisted Stitches and Twisted Cakes, this amusing adult colouring book helps crafters to release their tensions by embracing the dark side. The intricate designs include popular horror themes like a Day of the Dead skull, a CSI crime scene, a zombie bride, vampires and werewolves. You'll find wicked images with a humorous twist, such as a repeating pattern of Headless Chickens that's a perfect outlet at the end of a bad day. And fun ideas in illustrations like "Where's Wall-eye Rat at the Mouse Party" introduce a puzzle element to some of the pictures.

Key Selling Points

- Appeals to crafters who are looking for something other than cute or pretty or mindful
- Conveniently portable in size
- A perfect Halloween gift

About The Author

Leighton Noyes is an artist and children's book illustrator with a warped sense of humor. As well as illustrating more than 70 books since 2000 for a wide range of publishers, including Scholastic, Collins, and Random House, he has produced cartoons for a Dr Who magazine. Leighton studied illustration at (KIAD) Maidstone, followed by a BA (Hons) Degree at Camberwell College of Art and a book illustration course at Chelsea College of Art.
